Pop-up gallery fundraiser to support Hugo's treatment

The Pōhutukawa Coast community is rallying to support eleven-year-old Hugo Donaldson, a Beachlands schoolboy currently facing a heartbreaking and life-threatening battle with cancer.

In January 2024, Hugo was diagnosed with Stage 4 Alveolar Rhabdomyosarcoma, a rare and aggressive childhood cancer. After enduring nine rounds of high-dose chemotherapy and 28 sessions of radiation, he was declared clear in August that year.

However in March this year, while still on maintenance treatment, Hugo relapsed. Despite further chemotherapy and radiation, recent scans have shown his cancer continues to progress. In a matter of days, Hugo went from feeling sore to being unable to walk, reliant on a wheelchair, and in constant pain.

With treatment options in New Zealand now extremely limited, Hugo has been accepted into a promising CAR T cell therapy clinical trial in the United States – a therapy that may offer him the chance at remission and a future beyond hospitals and cancer wards.

Hugo's dad, Aaron Donaldson, says they have already seen encouraging signs from similar trials. "We know of at least one child with the same type of cancer who received a similar version of this treatment at the same hospital and is now in long-term remission. It gives us hope that Hugo might have that same chance."

While the treatment itself is funded, the associated medical and living costs in the U.S. total around $500,000, which must be paid upfront. Hugo's parents, Sam and Aaron, are drawing on their KiwiSaver, selling assets, and working through every avenue available, but they cannot meet the costs alone.

In response, the local community has stepped up to help run a fundraising Pop-Up Gallery Exhibition this November.

Held at the Ray White Shed, the exhibition will feature a curated display of photographic works created by Hugo's mum, Samantha, who is a professional photographer. The works will be divided into three themes: New Zealand landscapes, New York City street scenes, and floral still life compositions. All pieces will be available for purchase, printed on high-quality fine art photographic paper and

Editorial by Hūnua, Ararimu & Paparimu Valley Residents Association

Country Fair provides much needed fun for Hunua, Ararimu and Paparimu valleys

The rural communities of Hūnua, Ararimu and Paparimu have been through a lot lately, fighting two proposed managed fills in recent months. But a new Country Fair at Y Camp Adair, Hūnua on 2 November brought plenty of smiles, with hundreds of families turning out to enjoy the fun.

The free event featured a large classic car display with WWII jeeps and a range of shiny American and UK vehicles plus farm tractors. There were market stalls, a live band, a baking competition, and free bouncy castles. Historic photos and memorabilia belonging to local schools, halls and community groups were displayed in the old schoolhouse.

There was a strong environmental aspect to the fair with Friends of Te Wairoa Catchment members demonstrating bait and trap methods for pests. Y Camp Adair sold native seedlings grown in their own nursery and took requests from lifestyle block owners wanting crack willows to be eradicated from their stretches of the Wairoa River, as well as replanting.

Emergency response groups were also well represented and provided advice about how to prepare for and respond to major weather events.

The Hūnua Volunteer Fire Brigade took on the Pōhutukawa Coast Community Response Team in a tug-o-war at last weekend’s Country Fair.

Y Camp Adair instructors operated a giant Flying Fox and dozens of youngsters swooped over the playing field, providing an exciting backdrop to the whole event. Old fashioned games such a gumboot tossing, sack races and three-legged races were popular, but the real highlight was the tug-o-war competitions. Hūnua Volunteer Fire Brigade beat Pōhutukawa Coast Community Response Team in the best of three matches. Then they versed a mixed team of community members before the kids got into the action (aided by a couple of firefighters).

Hūnua, Ararimu, Paparimu Valley Residents Association (HAPVRA) co-chair Geraldine Schnauer says the fair was a huge success and a good distraction while residents wait to hear from Auckland Council as to when managed fills hearings will take place: “We are thrilled the Country Fair ran so well. We wanted to inject some positivity into the community, and we achieved just that thanks to the assistance of Franklin Local Board who provided us with a grant to help fund the event.

“We’ve had a very stressful time this year fighting the managed fills. We’re very proud our small communities sent more than 500 opposition submissions to both the Paparimu and Hūnua proposals, now we’re waiting to hear from Auckland Council when the hearings will take place next year.”

Ararimu Residents & Ratepayers Association is also supporting HAPVRA’s Paparimu anti-fill campaign which could see around 87 trucks per day travel from SH1 through the region for the next 15 years.

After so much action, HAPVRA committee members are taking a well-deserved break for a few weeks. As for talk of making the Country Fair an annual event ... it could happen. Watch this space!

New footpath planned for Rewa Road

After receiving feedback from the Maraetai community, Auckland Transport has announced it will build a new footpath on Rewa Road.

Currently, only one side of Rewa Road (from Carlton Crescent) has a footpath, which AT says can be inconvenient and unsafe for pedestrians.

AT says its plans include building out the existing kerb, with the width varying between 0.5 metres and 1 metre, to accommodate the new continuous footpath while minimising the need for significant modifications to driveways.

No trees will be removed and there will be no changes to retaining walls, however parking restrictions have been included to allow for vehicle passing opportunities.

Parking restrictions will also improve visibility at the bend near the Maraetai Hall, says AT.

AT says the changes will result in a number of community benefits, including pedestrian safety and improved access to shops, public transport, the beach and community facilities.

Rotary chalks up another successful Coastal Fun Run at Te Puru

This year’s Rotary ALLFIT Coastal Fun Run attracted the largest number of participants in six years. Photos by Joe Ranzinger and Ted Erkill.

Just under 500 participants took part in the seventh Rotary ALLFIT Coastal Fun Run last month, the largest turnout for six years. Centred on Te Puru Park in Beachlands, the event was again blessed with excellent spring weather.

Marcia and Braden Jerram won their respective genders in the 10km race, and Toby Morrow won both the 5km child category and the 5km overall.

Event Manager Brendan Kerwick says:

“Two of the most pleasing things we see from the statistics is that 58% of the participants were from outside the Pōhutukawa Coast area and over 70% hadn’t participated in the event before.”

Rotary says it will raise a significant sum from the event thanks to sponsors and “the awesome people who took part”.

Rotary thanks all those from the Pōhutukawa Coast who supported this community event, either as a participant, sponsor, volunteer or supporter, particularly ALLFIT 24/7 Fitness Gym who have supported the event for seven years, and the Franklin Local Board for their support via the Partnership Programme.

Funds raised will be pooled with proceeds from the Trolley Derby (to be held 1 March), and dispersed by Rotary, via an application process, into the community.

CATCH OF THE WEEK PHOTO COMPETITION

Send us your fishing photos this summer and be in to win a $50 Top Catch voucher from GAS Maraetai each week!

The overall season winner will win a brand new rod and reel sponsored by GAS Maraetai.

Theo Manaton caught 23 kahawai while fishing from land in Maraetai last month - even when the website tides4fishing rated the day a 0/3 day for fishing. Theo used a 3 inch wave minnow he bought from GAS Maraetai to catch his fish.

TO ENTER, EMAIL YOUR PHOTO TO LIZ@GASMARAETAI.CO.NZ

include your full name, plus details about your catch (where the fish was caught, boat name, special gear used, what you did with the fish after it was caught etc).

COASTAL CAT RESCUE'S CAT OF THE MONTH

After a short break the first of our kittens have arrived in care. They are adorable and although not quite ready to leave the rescue they present a chance to begin life with the love, fun and companionship a feline can bring while their new family is on Christmas break. Please message if you, or someone you know, is almost ready to invite a kitten in to your home. All our rescue animals are desexed, health checked, micro-chipped (registered to new owner) have received a minimum of their first vaccine, are parasite treated and eligible for six weeks Southern Cross Pet Insurance (Subject to T & C's). An adoption donation applies to enable us to continue to help cats and kittens in need.

If you'd like to learn more about the cats and kittens we currently have available for adoption, or if you need guidance about desexing your own cat, please email coastalcatrescuenz@gmail.com or visit Coastal Cat Rescue (NZ) on Facebook and PM. There may be some delays in responding to messages. Thank you for your understanding and the continued support our wonderful community gives to the rescue.

Arts Hub invites the community to help decorate their Christmas float

The Pōhutukawa Coast Arts Hub is making a splash this spring, with a free, family-friendly workshop on Sunday 9 November, where locals are invited to help design an underwater-themed Christmas float and costumes for this year’s parade.

The hands-on session will give participants a chance to paint coral, fish and starfish decorations, create ocean-inspired costumes (like jellyfish, sharks, crabs and divers), and build a coral reef display to bring the float to life.

All materials are provided, just bring your imagination and some paint-friendly clothes!

To register, visit www.pcartshub.com or email pcartshub@gmail.com

The workshop is supported by the Franklin Local Board.

For those keen to connect regularly, the Friday Art Group meets every week from 10.30am–12.30pm at Beachlands Hall. The group welcomes artists of all levels to share ideas, learn, and create over a cuppa in a relaxed setting.

The Arts Hub is now a registered charitable trust, and is seeking new members to help run its community education programme and community events. Anyone with a passion for community arts, and/or with skills in event planning, governance, grant applications or communications is encouraged to get involved.

Arts Hub members get creative.

Letters losing priority as NZ Post scales back delivery service

The government has approved changes to a document which will allow NZ Post to reduce the number of days it offers a mail service.

The Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment said last month that changes to the Postal Deed of Understanding between the Crown and NZ Post had been approved.

The new Deed requires mail to be delivered a minimum of two days a week to urban addresses, post office boxes and private bags, and a minimum of three days a week to rural addresses, spread throughout the week.

The previous minimum was three days for urban areas and five days for rural and PO boxes.

Parcels and courier packages are not included as part of the Deed change.

The changes also mean the number of postal outlets will drop from 880 to 500, and then to 400 over four years. There will also be an increase in communal collection points over individual mailboxes.

NZ Post has faced increasing challenges operating a commercially viable business over recent years as mail volumes have declined.

The new Deed will allow NZ Post to remain commercially viable.

“Mail is an important service that we are committed to continuing to deliver,” says says NZ Post Chief Executive David Walsh.

“Mail is part of our DNA, and will continue to be as long as New Zealanders continue to send letters. The changes announced to the Deed provide us with flexibility to continue making changes to bring the mail service in line with today’s communication needs,” says Walsh.

Walsh says the Deed change will not automatically result in operational change to NZ Post’s services.

“Any operational changes will include appropriate engagement with our people and stakeholders in the first instance,” says Walsh.

“For now, there is nothing that Kiwis need to do differently and their mail delivery will continue as usual. NZ Post will proactively communicate future service changes to the public, to ensure that Kiwis know exactly what they can expect from their mail service.”

Rural Women New Zealand (RWNZ) says it is “deeply disappointed” at the decision to approve significant changes to NZ Post’s minimum service obligations, believing it will disproportionately affect rural communities.

“These service cuts are a step backwards for rural New Zealand,” says Rural Women New Zealand National President Sandra Matthews. “They will make life harder for rural people who already face longer travel times, reduced access to services and unreliable digital connectivity.”

Under a new agreement, NZ Post can scale back the number of days it delivers mail each week.

“Rural New Zealanders rely heavily on postal services, not just for mail but for medication, paying bills, receiving essential deliveries, and maintaining business operations. For many, frequent, accessible post services are a necessity.”

CHAIRMAN'S ELITE
PERFORMER 24-25

Omana's once-majestic Norfolk pine tree, estimated at 50-80 years old, is looking a little less sad following a recent facelift.

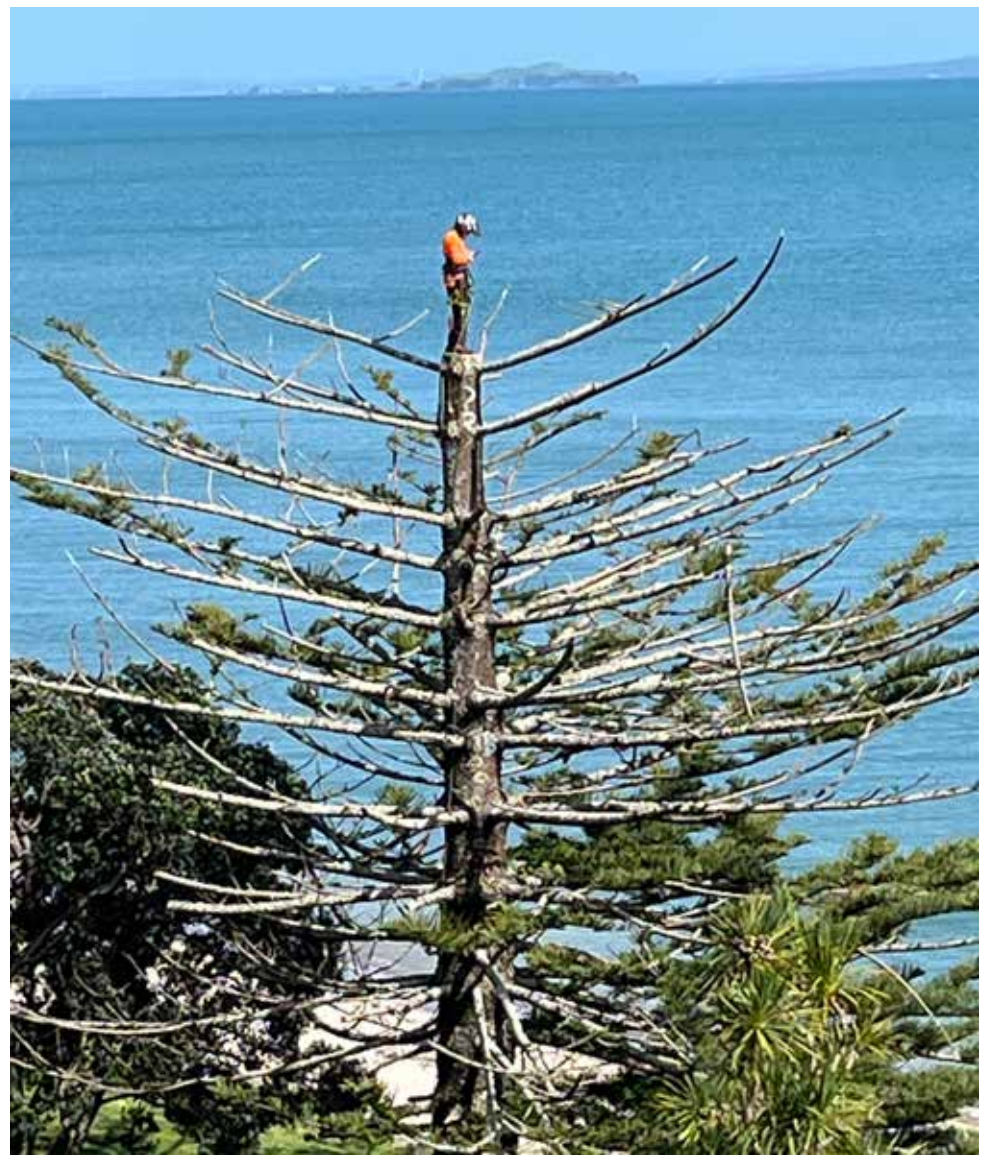

In 2021, Omana resident Marcellé Roth contacted the PC Times after noticing a deep horizontal cut stretching around the tree trunk. She came to the conclusion the tree had been ringbarked. “Obviously someone didn’t like it blocking their view,” says Marcellé.

Almost five years on, the health of the tree has further declined.

Arboriculture and Ecology Manager David Stejskal says council-appointed arborists recently removed hangers and deadwood from the tree, though the rest of the tree remains in place.

“The tree has sustained damage in the past, through vandalism, having been ringbarked in February 2021. At the time, council arborists decided to retain as much of the tree as possible. The tree was topped by council contractors in October 2024, and the recent work was focused on ongoing maintenance and public safety,” says Stejskal.

Speaking to the PC Times in 2021, Judy said: “I’ve got two sisters and the tree is special to all of us ... I’m so sad to think that someone has done this deliberately.”

Auckland Council has closed the Hūnua Ranges to public access while it carries out extensive pest control operations.

Te Ngāherehere o Kohukohunui / Hūnua Ranges, Waharau, and Whakatiwai, along with tracks within DOC's managed Mangatawhiri and Vining reserves, will remain closed until further notice. The public should not enter the park as there is a risk to people and pets from this operation.

BARFOOT THOMPSON

Student Voice

LOCAL STUDENTS' NEWS, VIEWS & LITERARY TALENT

This column features news, views and literary talents of students from Beachlands, Maraetai, Clevedon, Brookby, Hūnua, Ōrere and Ardmore Schools.

One student featured each week will be presented with a certificate and a $20 book voucher, thanks to Barfoot & Thompson’s Beachlands and Whitford branches.

Brookby’s Baa-rillicant ag day

On Sunday, Brookby School’s famous annual Ag Day left families, students, and the community buzzing with excitement. The day was filled with rides, animals, fun, and laughter as people from all over came together to celebrate.

Students presented the animals they had been rearing for the past few months to judges in a friendly but competitive event, where they received ribbons and trophies.

Ag Day was the school’s busiest day of the year, attracting hundreds—if not thousands—of people. It was also the biggest fundraiser, bringing in an amazing $25,000!

Many stalls were set up, offering everything from tasty food and drinks to creative crafts and delicious baking. The Brookby auctions and raffles were huge crowd-pleasers, and the public loved winning incredible prizes!

Some of the biggest attractions of the day were definitely the rides. From spinning teacups to huge bouncy castles, screams of joy and laughter could be heard from miles away!

Parents and kids battled it out in the inflatable jousting arena, having an absolute blast. Another exciting feature of this year’s Ag Day was the mechanical bull, flinging riders left and right! Some managed to stay on for a long time, while others were off in three seconds flat.

Brookby School secretary Nic Norris couldn’t be happier about the outcome of the day, saying, “I thought all the students were amazing with their animals. It showed how much time and care they put into them.”

Brookby students were also delighted with the day. Jemima Fulton, a five-year-old Brookby student, said, “My favorite part of the day was going on the teacups and bouncy castles with my friends.”
